NEW SCHOOLS TO BE ERECTED IN EDMONTON

Trustees Tackle Serious Problem at First Meeting of Year

Faced with the urgent need of school accommodation for Edmonton's rapidly growing school population, the Edmonton Public School board for 1928 is swinging into stride for the new year with a tentative plan to embark upon a quarter of a million dollars building program stretched over a period of two years.

With superintending McKee recommending the erection of two new school buildings to relieve the pupil load over practically the entire housing problem at the regular meeting held last night.

34 Room Buildings Planned
The board was practically agreed that the new accommodation needed but it is expected that it will be some time before the definite locations of the new centres are decided.

Buildings which will contain 34 rooms are suggested for erection. One of these is proposed as an addition to the present school on 11th street. It is planned to make another 12 room building in the old site structure, thereby relieving the pupil load from Westmount and Stokely, and making a more even distribution for the district.

For the new district, which has been planning a new better school accommodation since 1923, the board is now planning to erect a new school building somewhere between the North and 11th A. A. Grand, as suggested in Sept. McKee's report.

OVERWORKING THE MACHINERY?

It is stated that last week's breakdown of the water and electric light and power services was due to the failure of a turbine which had been running continuously for 23½ hours. That in itself suggests that the machinery at the power plant is being overworked. In conjunction with the fact that there were no other units available to carry the load when this one went out of action, the inference is pretty generally made that some new equipment there without loss of time.

The requirements of safety demand that there should always be at least one spare unit of machinery of the same type as the one which is in operation. It is a matter of first consideration. There must be no regardlessness when the requirements for more machinery come in from those who are responsible for the operation of the plant.

SIZING UP THE MARKET

Twelve Alberta farmers are included in the party of agriculturists from all sections of the Dominion which is to tour Great Britain, with a view to getting an insight into market conditions there as they bear upon the prospects for Canadian farm products. It is to be hoped that some means will be taken to enable the tourists to broadcast their observations and their conclusions for the benefit of their fellow farmers, when they return. The more widely that is done the greater will be the gain to the farmers and the country from the excursion. The prosperity of the Canadian farmer is based upon the capacity of the British market to consume his surplus products. That is upon the ability and the willingness of the British consumer to buy those products in quantity and at profit-giving prices. The more clearly the farmer in Canada understands the circumstances of his overseas customer the better able he will be to produce what that consumer wants, the better able to judge what the consumer can pay, and the better able to measure the demand there is in Britain for various kinds which Canada does not now send there in large volume.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

The Edmonton board of trade last week welcomed upwards of one hundred new members. And officials announced that there was no difference in the number of members in some former years in getting results from the annual canvass. Both facts indicate that the place of the board, and the way it is carrying on its business, are better known and more favorably known to the business men of the city.

This organization is now nearing its fortieth anniversary. It is the premier public body in this community, bearing the public school district. It came into existence in 1888 and has since that time been a leading factor in the development of the city. Its establishment was one of the most important steps taken by the city fathers of that time, and it has since that time been a leading factor in the development of the city. Its establishment was one of the most important steps taken by the city fathers of that time, and it has since that time been a leading factor in the development of the city.

It may be fairly stated that the board has lived up to that expectation of its duties with remarkable fidelity throughout its long career. With its present large membership, elaborate organization, and equipment of office personnel, it is in a position to carry on its future with equal credit to itself and benefit to the city.

There is quite as much need now as in any past year for some organization which can voice the business interests of Edmonton. The developments in the northern railway situation afford one major subject in connection with which the board will require very active attention. The trade of this city with the great northland may be very vitally affected by the disposition that will be made of the two provincial railways, and the plan that is adopted for the outworking of the northern transportation problem generally. That question is especially on the boards of the two provinces at present. That the board of trade of the city will use what means are possible to secure a solution which will properly safeguard the interests of the city in the matter is to be taken for granted.

And that is only one of a number of public questions which Edmonton's welfare is involved and in which it is important that the business institutions and interests of the city should be forcefully represented. The board of trade has the prospect of a year of large opportunities. Fortunately it has the membership and the public sympathy which entitle it to speak with assurance where the interests of the city are affected.

By EDGAR E. GUEST

He was a very brilliant man. As wise as he could be. But strange to say from day to day he could be very foolish. And even his brilliant children seemed to be in the time to do of crime. A lot of them will grow.

This man then threw his faith away and did not know the will of God. At optimum he shook his fists. And threw the parents out. He grew to more at workaholic. And looked at all the rules. With downcast eyes he used to pray. "The world is full of fools."

He read the bitter books produced by the wise men and men. He loved with griefs and unbeliefs. And loved the life of pain. And if a glad man laughed aloud. He would be with might and main. He sighed: "Ah me! That proves that he is a hopeless man."

And yet his neighbors and their friends. Had many a merry day. Their lives were true: their children, too. They gladly waited at play. They played the role of winter time. And loved the summer days. The fact is that they seemed to miss. The pain of being.

Good Will

By DR. FRANK CHASE

An intangible asset, but one of the most valuable in any business concern is good will. It is valuable because it sells goods and that is what a man is in business for.

It is not only necessary to make the best use of the world. If you are selling for trade, but it is equally important that people should want it, and they can't want it if they don't know about it. That is why advertising is so important in a place in the modern, nationally consumed market.

People wonder why the Dodge family restaurant is so successful. The answer is simple. It was largely because of the steady publicity. The Dodge family restaurant is so successful. The answer is simple. It was largely because of the steady publicity.

People often forget. It is a thing not to be called to their attention they think of it no more. Any man who is in the public notice knows how quickly the public forgets. When once the public is talking about a thing, it is a thing of public character is true of any trade-marked article. But the public forgets with one-half of a hinge.

It requires a good deal of ability to write a taking advertisement. Few anybody can do it. It is necessary to make a market for your goods as it is to produce them, and push their sales. The market is the other half of the business. The market is the other half of the business.

There is no special trick about it. Funny advertisement is a thing that is not to be called to their attention they think of it no more. Any man who is in the public notice knows how quickly the public forgets. When once the public is talking about a thing, it is a thing of public character is true of any trade-marked article. But the public forgets with one-half of a hinge.

Health and Diet Advice

Questions on Health and Diet Answered by Dr. McCoy, when addressed to care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

DIET A POTENT FACTOR IN EVERY DISEASE

This is the second of a series of articles in which I will try to explain to you the part which food plays in the cause and cure of all of the common disorders. As explained, I am taking up these various disorders one by one, on down through an alphabetical list, the closing paragraph in the introductory article having covered the first and last disorders.

Bright's Disease, or Nephritis, is due to faulty metabolism. This is likewise true of diabetes. A cure depends almost wholly upon dietary treatment. Bronchitis and all similar degenerative diseases of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat are the result of too liberal a use of mucous-forming foods, such as wheat, starches, and fats. A change of diet, which is the only way to cure them, will eliminate them and still these catarrhal troubles will continue until the mucous-forming foods are entirely eliminated. Hay fever is likewise caused by the irritation of this mucous, which is often of an acid reaction, irritating in certain delicate types of mucous membrane.

Constipation is developed from multiplication of causes, chief among which is the use of too much starch and a deficiency in the diet of the body's green vegetables and fruits.

Defective stimulation of the bowels, when not due to actual atrophy, is due entirely to lack of the body's green vegetables and fruits. In turn, as I have said before, the bowels are not properly stimulated.
